PageMaker Training: Raincloud Publishing offers training to individuals and small groups in Macintosh PageMaker and basic Macintosh use. Training always starts at the level of the computer user and builds increasing levels of capability and sophistication.

Macintosh Training: Training is available for individuals ranging from beginners needing an introduction to the Macintosh interface and simple word processing, to advanced users of graphics, page layout, database, electronic mail, and communications applications. Public domain and shareware software libraries are available.

Word Processing: Your text documents are entered into the computer, formatted according to your specification, and laser printed. Editing with full spell checking is also available.

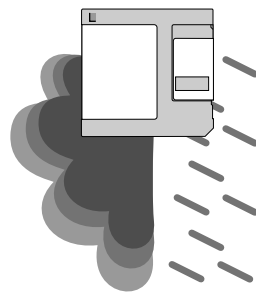

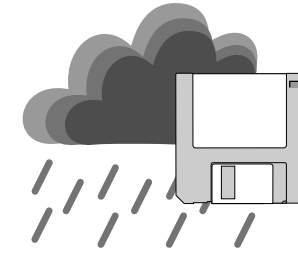

Logos: Your existing logo can be translated into a computer logo for inclusion in a desktop published document, or a new logo can be developed.

Letterhead: An appealing letterhead can be developed for your business, organization, or personal correspondence. The letterhead can include your logo.

Flyers: Attract attention with bold graphics and display type to get your message out.

Forms: Standard forms can be tailored to your business, with the inclusion of logos.

Databases: Databases can be created for any type of information including graphics, with input from existing sources or hand entry, and output to printed reports or to other desktop published documents.

Services

Raincloud Publishing

Raincloud Publishing offers a variety of desktop publishing services to lend a professional and appealing look to all your documents. Laser printed documents are created to fit your needs, and commercial copying or printing of these documents is available. If you are a do-it-yourself person, training in the Macintosh and PageMaker is just what you need. Raincloud specializes in serving environmental and community organizations. Recycled paper is used whenever possible.

Newsletter Design & Production

Raincloud Publishing offers complete newsletter design and production services, including:

- layout development
- text entry and editing
- inclusion of stock or created pictures, logos, and clip art
- laser printed masters
- copying or printing on recycled paper
- folding, collating, mailing

Professionally produced newsletters give your organization a strong image to attract and keep members or customers.

Web Site Development

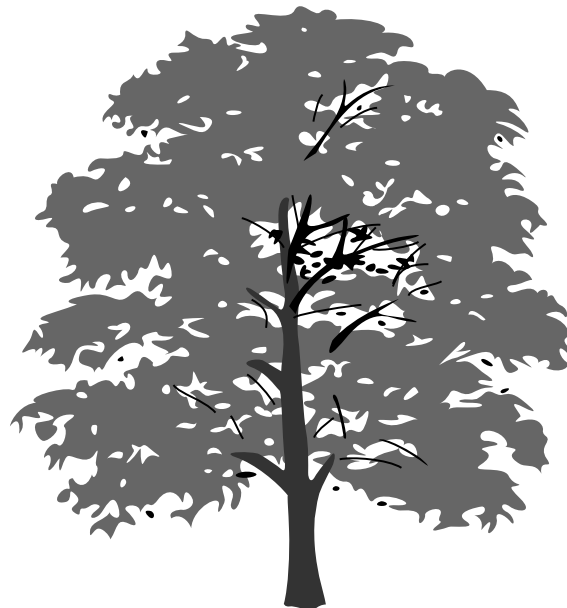

You or your organization can have a professional presence on the Internet. Visually pleasing designs with graphics are balanced with accurate and useful content that will draw people to your site and further the purpose of your organization or business. Online forms and tailored graphics can be developed.

Network Design & Installation

Networks for educational and small business environments can be designed to enhance printer and file sharing and communication within an organization. 10BaseT and 100BaseT networks, cards, hubs, and Internet connections are specific and installed to standards.

Books

Design and production of books is available. From initial conception, through design of an appealing and user-friendly appearance, text and data entry, editing, page layout, production of masters, printing, and soft binding, your book project will receive detailed attention.

Brochures & Folders

A professional brochure or folder supports the image of your business or organization, and attracts new customers or members.

Résumés

Résumés are organized for a professional look that emphasizes your employment strengths.

Clip Art

An extensive clip art library is available to enhance all publications. Topics include nature, business, people, maps (world, region, country, state, county), and patterns. EPS and bit-mapped formats are available.

Costs

Costs for a particular service often depend upon the materials the customer provides and the quality of the product desired. A price list is available for many standard services, and price quotes will be developed quickly for unique situations.

Raincloud Publishing specializes in services to not-for-profit educational, environmental and community organizations. Services are offered at costs considerably below commercial rates. Your organization, and the good work you do, can benefit tremendously from an appealing and professional image in all printed materials.
